WHERE SOME SCHOOLS FAIL.

A good deal has appeared of late in the public journals in relation to the schools of to-day. Many of the good points of these institutions have been brought out into bold relief, and so have many of the bad ones. Such a discussion, says the New York Tribune, if conducted in a candid spirit, must be productive of excellent results. It cannot take too wide a range nor concern itself with too great a number of details. The progress of the race—not to speak of what is known as the manifest destiny of our country—of course is largely conditioned upon a school system which meets the best expectations at all points.

While the subject was informally under consideration the other evening, a gentleman was asked why he had withdrawn his son from a well known school, a school which has a great reputation. "I did so," was the reply, "because I had come to the conclusion that my boy's tuition was costing me considerably more than it was worth. If he was a bright, forward boy, probably I should not have had any reason to complain. But he is rather a dull boy—not stupid, you know, but dull. He does not learn easily; isn't one of your Macaulay chaps. A great many things which some of his fellow-students understand at a glance were to him puzzles. But that circumstance did not seem to be appreciated by his teachers, or, if it was appreciated, it wasn't acted upon. He received no more attention at their hands than the most precocious member of his class. If he made a poor recitation he received a low mark, but he did not receive any extra assistance. The consequence was that his mother or I was compelled to supplement the school. We labored with him over his arithmetic or his Latin, or whatever it might be, taking care to find out just what the points were which he failed to grasp, and patiently explaining them to him. So it came to pass that I was paying out a large sum of money every quarter to a school which did little more than hear lessons that had been prepared at home under our own supervision. The brunt of the labor came upon us; the teacher's task was comparatively a light one. I objected to an arrangement which I regarded as unfair and withdrew my boy."

This is by no means an isolated case. The same criticism is continually being passed on some public and private schools the country over. They are conducted on a principal which works well, so far as the ready pupils are concerned, but which ignores the children whose mental processes are slow. They are not graded so as to afford an opportunity for the teacher to do his best by those who have most need of instruction. A distinguished Boston clergyman who has given much thought to the school problem declared not long ago that his observation had convinced him that a large number of institutions of learning might properly be defined as buildings in which children were made to recite not what they had been taught in the buildings, but had been taught out of it.

The gentlemen whom we have quoted was asked if his boy had every been asked to remain after a recitation or after school hours in order that a lesson in which he had been marked zero might be explained to him. He replied that he had asked his boy that question, and learned that no such an invitation had ever been extended. The duty of a teacher is to teach, not merely to listen to a lesson that has been taught. The school which fails to teach is a failure.

AS TO THE NEXT CENTURY.

The Chicago Journal: Very few, if any, of us will live to see another centennial of Washington's inauguration; and the condition of the country in 1989 baffles speculation and imagination. Will the Union continue? What will be its geographical extent? What changes will the constitution have undergone? What will be the solution of the labor problem? What will be the condition of finance, of education, of religion? What will be the modes of education, of religion? What will be the mechanical motors? What will be the methods of communicating thought that will have superseded the telegraph and telephone? What will be the engines of war? Will wars have ceased? Who will vote? What will have happened to the marriage relation?

Who will even venture to guess answers to these questions? There are a plenty of people who think they know all that goes on in heaven or hell; but no one is fool enough to think that he can form an idea of the spectacle the United States will present in another century.

General Greely's latest order regarding weather indications is only one of several evidences that he has given, since his appointment as chief signal officer, of his desire to improve the branch of the service committed to his charge. The desirability of extending the time covered by the daily forecasts beyond twenty-four hours, whenever it can be done with any approach to accuracy, is too obvious to need comment; and experience shows, as General Greely suggests in his circular letter of instructions, that occasionally the weather conditions over most of the country are sufficiently well defined to make safe long-range predictions practicable. As this is more frequently the case in summer than in winter, he exhibits good judgment in the selection of a time for beginning the work.

A Pittsburg doctor says he can diagnose ailments by examing a single hair of the patient. Two young men, as a joke, took him a hair from a bay horse. The doctor gravely wrote a prescription, and said his fee was $25, as the case was precarious. They were staggered, but paid the fee, and after they got out laughed all the way to the apothecary's. The latter took the prescription and read in amazement: "One bushel of oats, four quarts of water, stir well, and give three times a day—and turn the animal out to grass. Then the jokers stopped laughing.

Belvidere, Ill.—At the special election for county judge in this county the Hon. Wales W. Wood was chosen by a large majority.

CANADA DIVESTED OF LANDS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2.—Mr. Dewdney, Minister of the Interior, said in the House to-day that up to the present time the Government has given 35,000,000 acres to railway companies, which together with the 5,000,000 now proposed to be voted makes a total of 40,000,000 acres. The area of agricultural lands in the fertile belt of Manitoba and the Northwest was 135,000,000. By deducting the lands in Manitoba and the reserve of 40,000,000 acres for settlement corresponding with the area granted to railways, it can be seen that the Dominion has divested itself of all the good agricultural land in the Northwest.

President Harrison Censured.

FREDERICK, Md., May 2.—The Maryland State league of Republican clubs began its convention to-day and almost split up on a resolution offered by the delegation from Howard, Senator Gorman's county, condemning President Harrison for his appointment to an inspectorship of Calvin Gorman, the brother of the Senator. It provoked a bitter debate, many opposing it because they did not wish to discredit the administration. So great, however, is the hatred toward Gorman that the resolution was passed amid the greatest excitement. Calvin Gorman was recently dismissed from a position he held in the custom house, but the Senator promptly got him a position as inspector at Norfolk.

Driven to Suicide by Trouble.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 2.—Louis Nafsiger was found in the country, twenty miles northwest of Bloomington, last night with a bullet wound in his head. He did not regain consciousness, and died this morning. He left a letter saying that he was driven to suicide by trouble. He had acted curiously of late, and it is supposed he was demented. He was 26 years old, and a member of a highly respected family.

He Wants Damages.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY RETURN FROM NEW YORK.

The President in the Best of Spirits—Blaine's Health—General News and Gossip.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Presidential train arrived here at 10:45 Wednesday night, the journey from New York being a quick and pleasant one. After leaving Philadelphia supper was served. The dining car was given up to the newspaper correspondents, and after dinner a number of gentlemen from the President's dining car came in, several making speeches. Secretary Proctor declined to speak, and his hasty exit was made amid a chorus of allusions to the "secretary of peace." Postmaster General Wannamaker promised the company that the 2-cent postage stamp would be painted in vivid red if the newspaper men demanded it; Assistant Secretary Bustey established his popularity by saying he had no doorkeeper, and Private Secretary Halford said he had one doorkeeper and needed two. Then the entire company drank Secretary Blaine's health, to which Walker Blaine responded. On arriving here the President was at once driven to the White House.

The Railway Mail Service.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A large number of Illinois appointments to positions in the railway mail service were made yesterday and last night. Nearly all Republicans who had been removed in the past year are restored, and Democrats who succeeded them have been "fired." The railway mail service comes under the civil service rules, beginning to-day, and the clerks of the postoffice department were kept up all night making changes up to the last minute.

Mr. Blaine's Health.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Blaine has fully recovered from his recent attack and expects to be at the department to-morrow. He regrets exceedingly his inability to attend the centennial celebration in New York. He had an interview with Sir Julian Pauncefote in order to make the necessary arrangements for presenting him officially to the President when the latter returns.

Citizens of Guthrie Thankful.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Noble to-day received a telegram from the Mayor of Guthrie, I. T., saying that at a meeting of the city council of Guthrie, a resolution was adopted tendering the thanks of that body and the citizens of Guthrie for the prompt and efficient action in repressing frauds in attempting to acquire title to property and to prevent unjust use of official power by persons seeking to profit by it.

National Capital Notes.

Mr. Blaine left positive orders to-day that he would see no one and would not even receive cards. The clerk at the Normandie refused to send up a note from a reporter asking for information concerning the rumor that Mr. Blaine was suffering from a stroke of paralysis, but Mr. Sherman, his private secretary, who came down from Mr. Blaine's room just then, said there was no truth in the report.

Bond offerings at the Treasury yesterday aggregated $87,600, as follows: Registered 4s, $47,100 at 129, and $40,500 registered 4½s at 108. All were accepted.

E. S. Lacey of Michigan, the new comptroller of the currency, has taken the oath of office and entered upon the discharge of his duties.

HOAR AND HIS COLLEAGUES.

The Senatorial Canadian Relations Committee in Chicago—Its Plans.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Senator Hoar of Massachusetts arrived at the Grand Pacific yesterday morning. He is chairman of the Senate committee on relations with Canada, and was joined here by Senators Hale of Maine, Dolph of Oregon, and Allison of Iowa. Senators Pugh of Alabama, Butler of North Carolina, and Gray of Delaware will arrive to-day. Then a meeting will be held to arrange the details of the trip. The committee was formed under a resolution of the Senate and directed by that body "to report upon the relations of the commerce and business existing between the United States and the dependencies of Great Britain in North America, including the effect upon the commerce and the carrying trade of the United States of the Canadian system of railways and canals now existing and in contemplation, and the prospect of the displacement of any existing industries of the United States by industries established there; also whether the obligations of existing treaties and of international law are and have been observed by the people of the said dependencies toward the people of the United States and the number, amount and character of existing claims against Great Britain by reason of the violatoin of such obligations toward the people of the United States in such dependencies.

The party will leave here on Friday night in Manager Kimball's private car for San Francisco. Here they will begin their investigation, one feature of which will be the fisheries matter. From California they will go north in Senator Stanford's private car, stopping in Portland, Oregon, Port Townsend, Victoria, in the British possessions, and then return to Chicago. None of the gentlemen were anxious to talk of their mission. Senator Hoar, however, said the committee had no intention of looking into any railway matters at all. That was Senator Cullom's field. In regard to the Behring Sea matter, he said it would be considered.

A Monstrous Civil and Industrial Parade.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The third day of the great Washington centennial celebration broke clear and cool. The chief and almost the only notable feature of the day was the great civic and industrial parade, which formed early in the morning at Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street. On account of the unavoidable length of the procession, and for the personal convenience of the President, the start was made at about 8:30 a. m.

A little before 10 o'clock the Presidential party took up its position on the reviewing stand at Madison square. The route was just the reverse of that of yesterday's procession. It extended down Fifth avenue to Seventeenth street, to and around Union square by Fourteenth street to Fifth avenue, to Washington square by Waverly place, to Broadway and down that thoroughfare to Pine street. It was obliged to move more slowly than that of Tuesday on account of the number of tableaux in the line, and those who attain points of vantage early in the morning as witnesses of the spectacle were kept in their seats all day long.

Forced to Leave Home.

Over 60 people were forced to leave their homes yesterday to call for a free trial package of Lane's Family Medicine. If your blood is bad, your liver and kidneys out of order, if you are constipated and have headache and unsightly complexion, don't fail to call on any druggist to-day for a free sample of this grand remedy. The ladies praise it. Everyone likes it. Large size package 50 cents

DECISION OF ILLINOIS MINERS.

Resolutions Adopted at Streator to Fight the Proposed Reduction.

STREATOR, Ill., May 2.—The convention of the Twelfth or Northern district of Illinois coal miners concluded its labors here Wednesday. President Robert M. Reed of Braidwood, presided, and thirty-eight delegates were present, representing about 6,000 miners of northern Illinois. Every delegate was firm in the belief that last year's prices should be maintained at all hazards. The operators still insist upon a reduction of 10 cents per ton, basing their proposition largely upon the reported acceptance of a large reduction by the miners in the soft coal regions of Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. Letters and telegrams were read in the convention from the headquarters of the Miners' Progressive Union of these States denying that the miners had accepted the reduction. The convention passed resolutions in substance as follows:

"We, in the face of our past oppressed and ill-paid condition, are called upon to submit to another reduction of 10 cents per ton for the incoming year, which we consider unjust and uncalled for, therefore we propose to use all honorable means to ward off all such reductions. We are not in favor of moving as a State, district, or sub-district, but in favor of making a national movement to better the condition of our craft. Believing that 'where there's a will there's a way,' we direct our district officers to call a national convention of all the miners in bituminous coal fields, as far as the competition reaches, and that there be no work in the above competive district until such convention is called."

A mass meeting of more than 1,000 miners was held in the public park in the afternoon, and was addressed by President Reed. The resolutions were indorsed without a dissenting voice. This action will throw out of work at least 2,000 men in the Streator mines. None of them signed the annual contracts yesterday and all of them are out with the exception of thirteen Hungarians, who are still at work in No. 3 mine of the Chicago, Wilmington & Vermillion Coal company.

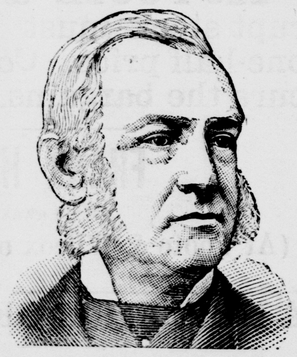
A GOOD HONEST MEDICINE.


The above bright and benevolent face, is Dr. A. W. Acker, of England, discoverer of the celebrated Acker's English Remedy for Consumption and other popular preparations. Dr. Acker practised in his younger days among the middle classes of London, and was the means of doing great good, but his health failed and he found himself in the grasp of consumption, with a wife and child depending upon him for support. While in this condition, he discovered the celebrated English Remedy, saved his own life and has since saved the lives of thousands who were on the sure road to death. Any man or woman who feels a tickling in the throat, who coughs, especially in the morning, who raises or has a tight feeling across the chest, who has sharp shooting pains through the lungs or difficulty in breathing, should realize that these are the first symptoms of consumption which, if neglected, are sure to result fatally. Dr. Acker's English Remedy has cured more than one thousand persons who unquestionably had consumption and who were given up by their friends. It merits its popularity and is sold by reputable druggists in every city and town in America. You can't afford to be without it.

FROM DESPAIR TO JOY.
The Painful Story of a Lovely Lady, and How She Finally Secured Happiness.
Mrs. Morton D. Harlan, residing at No. 55 West 25th Street, New York City, has passed through a most wonderful experience. Mrs. Harlan had a happy home and through her devotion to her home duties over-taxed her strength. She had depressed feelings, entire lack of energy in life, and finally a cough at night and morning which grew worse each day. Upon looking in the glass she saw dark circles under her eyes and found that she was growing thinner and losing all interest in life. This painful state of things continued for months until finally she became so weak she could not attend to her duties and was confined to her bed the greater part of the time. One day Mrs. Harlan's very dear friend Mrs. Willard called and was amazed to see her so wan and faded. Two bright hectic spots stood upon each cheek, her lips were blue, her face pinched and drawn, and there was a piteous look in her eyes. Mrs. Willard knew this meant consumption and her heart was touched for her friend. At her earnest request, the use of an English Remedy for consumption was tried. At the start very little effect could be seen, so great an inroad had the disease made, but by degrees Mrs. Harlan began to regain her lost appetite, then her strength, then her hope, then her health, and she is today in perfect physical condition, wholly as a result of the use of Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption.

The lesson of this simple story should be plain to all. No man or woman can afford to neglect those first symptoms of consumption, which seem so slight but which becomes so terrible unless taken in time. This Great Remedy has saved the lives of hundreds of well known men and women who were on the verge of the grave from consumption but who are well and happy to-day. It is sold universally.

WM. H. BARNUM DEAD.

SUDDEN DEMISE OF THE GREAT DEMOCRATIC LEADER.

Sketch of His Life—Identifying the Remains of the Dead at Hamilton, Ont.—Other Deaths.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 2.—The Hon. William H. Barnum, chairman of the National Democratic committee, died at Lime Rock at 9:45 Tuesday morning. Mr. Barnum had been confined to his bed but two or three days, but for the past forty-eight hours his death had been expected momentarily. He was out for the last time on Friday last when he sat on the piazza in the afternoon for an hour. Saturday he was taken with a bad spell and it was apparent from the first that he could not recover.

WILLIAM H. BARNUM.

Mr. Barnum had been very feeble ever since his sickness during the campaign. He was then taken sick in New York, and for two weeks it was thought he could not recover. He had been able to ride out for several weeks up to last Friday, and although he was very feeble he was thought to be on the road to recovery.

William H. Barnum was born in Connecticut in 1818. His parents were not wealthy and young Barnum received only a common school education. It is doubtful if he would have been much benefitted by a college career, for while at school he evinced no liking for books nor any aptitude for learning. Upon leaving school Mr. Barnum began life as an iron master. His sterling business qualities soon showed themselves, and from a small beginning he so added to his possessions that at the time of his death he was possessed of a very ample fortune. He continued in the iron business all his life and died owning all the principal blast furnaces and forges in the Housatonic Valley, besides large interests in the Lake Superior district. His very prominent business position finally led him into politics, and he soon became known as one of the ablest of campaign managers. He served three years in the House of Representatives at Washington, and for a part of one term was a United States Senator. During the campaign of 187 Mr. Barnum rendered such efficient service to the Democratic cause that in 1880 he was made chairman of the Democratic National committee. He held the same position in 1884, when his party was successful, and again in 1888. For the past few years Mr. Barnum has suffered frequently from ill health.

IDENTIFYING THE REMAINS.

Victims of the Disaster at Hamilton Being Claimed by Friends.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 2.—While workmen were removing debris at the scene of the recent railway wreck another body was found, swelling the number of the killed to twenty. Five of the city physicians who made close examination of the remains of the unidentified have come to the conclusion that among the burned were seven men, four women, and two children. Five of the bodies are so badly burned that it is impossible to tell the sex or age. George Grummett of Chicago has identified one of the watches found as that of his wife. Benjamin Weller of Toronto, thought that one of the calcined corpses was that of his brother-in-law, David Booth of Toronto. Mr. Paterlay, whose shield was found among the debris and has not been inquired for, it is thought was killed and burned. He was certainly not reported among the escaped persons. The body of J. S. Hall of Kankakee has been identified by his son-in-law, J. B. Henna. Theodore Curnick of Chicago has identified several articles as those of his father's, J. L. Curnick. George McKenzie of Chicago has identified a watch and pin belonging to his sister and aunt, both of Caicago. Inquiries are being made for M. R. Scullen of Chicago, John Kelly of Chicago, J. B. Stearns of Campden and M. and W. Randall Orr of Peekskill, N. Y.

Carl Rosa Dead.

LONDON, May 2.—Carl Rosa, the well-known musical director, is dead. His death occurred in Paris. He went to that city in company with Augustus Harris, manager of the Drury Lane Theater, to attend the Italian opera. On the trip across the channel Mr. Rosa was attacked by a chill, but he continued on the trip to Paris. Upon his arrival there he went to the Grand hotel, where he took to his bed. Peritonitis set in and death soon followed.

Blew Out the Gas.

CHICAGO, May 2.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon L. V. Johnson and A. L. Pearl, both from Burlington, Ill., were found dead in bed at the Bennett house, No. 71 Monroe street. The room was filled with gas and both men had been smothered to death. In the pocket book of one of them was found $22.50 in cash. They were evidently farmers who had come up to the city to attend the celebration.

A dry, hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which if not speedily removed, may lead to bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be had than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is both an anodyne and expectorant.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Att., Clay county, Texas, says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50c. and $1 at F. Sherer & Co's Drugstore.

THERE IS NO ONE ARTICLE IN THE LINE of medicines that gives so large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed Belladonna Backache Plasters.

BIG FIRE IN LA CROSSE.

A Mill and 2,000,000 Feet of Lumber Burned—Other Fires.

LA CROSSE, Wis., May 2.—A fire that assumed such proportions that the entire city was threatened broke out here at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. At 11 o'clock it was under control. The fire broke out in William Listman's big flouring mill, and owing to a strong wind burned furiously. Close to the mill is located John Paul's sawmill, C. L. Colman's sawmill, and the fine elevator owned by Listman. There are many lumber yards in proximity, and millions of feet of lumber. The flames spread from the mill to the elevator, and shortly after sparks ignited the lumber on the island. Sparta and Winona were appealed to for aid, and made preparations to come to the rescue. The local fire department kept the fire confined to Listman's building, and then directed their attention to the blaze on the island. This was soon placed under control.

The loss on the mill and the 2,000,000 feet of lumber burned is about $200,000.

PITTSFIELD, Ill., May 2.—Last week Andrew Podkins, a well-to-do farmer living near Summer Hill, this county, deeded all his lands, consisting of two farms of 100 acres each, to his two daughters, one unmarried and the other a Mrs. Graves, at this city. He also has two sons to whom he has rendered assistance in the past, but of late has had trouble, resulting in a law-suit with one of them. Last night the barn on the farm on which he resides was burned. It contained two fine farm horses, harness, carriage, grain, and farm implements, all amounting to about $1,100; insured for $400. There is no doubt as to the fire having been the work of an incendiary.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, May 2.—John Smidt, a tramp, demanded dinner at the farm of H. Lillibridge, near Holland, today. Angered because he was given graham bread, he burned the barn, together with four horses, a number of cattle, several stacks of hay, and other property. He was caught, and is now in jail at Grundy Center.

IRONWOOD, Mich., May 2.—The fire in the Aurora mine was extinguished this morning. No pumps or machinery were burned, and no lives were lost. The damage by fire is confined to No. 4 shaft, which was burned out and opened near the shaft. The loss to the Aurora company will be about $25,000.

MR. PLANKINTON TO RESIGN.

The St. Paul Directory Sure to Lose Him and Possibly Phil Armour

NEW YORK, May 2.—The rumor is again revived that John Plankinton and Phil D. Armour will resign their positions as directors of the St. Paul road at the June meeting. A director of the road said today when approached on the subject: "As to Mr. Armour I cannot say, but I know that John Plankinton will resign. His resignation has already been laid before the board with a request that it be accepted at the June meeting at the latest. Maj. Bond and others have tried to induce him to withdraw it but he will not listen to a word on the subject. The resignation is peremptory and must, he says, be accepted, as he will not serve any longer.

"The reason for this is, as I understand, the precarious state of Mr. Plankinton's health. The slight touch of paralysis which appeared some time ago has annoyed him a great deal. It decided him to withdraw from all enterprises of moment. I know his friends hope this western trip will benefit him, but from what I learn it is very doubtful if Mr. Plankinton shares the hope. Anyway, I understand he has determined to get rid of all business cares. His resignation is not due to any trouble in the board. Mr. Armour wants to retire, but I believe he will remain in it at least for another year."

HE REFUSED THE FLAG.

Considerable Feeling Aroused at Joliet By the Action of Father Mangan.

JOLIET, Ill., May 3.—Some time ago the Sons of Veterans resolved to present each and all the public and sectarian schools with a flag. It was refused by the Rev. Father Mangan, who presides over the parochial school of St. Mary's parish, although one of the Sons of Veterans had paid $35 for a flag for this school. Later one of the local papers in an article said that certain "kickers" had fallen in with the order of Cardinal Gibbons to have patriotic exercises observed in all the parochial schools and referred to the fact that the late refusal of the flag on the occasion of the anniversary of the adoption of the American flag had been redeemed by the consent to observe the centennial of the nation's birth. Although no names were used the Rev. Mangan of St. Mary's took it up, and in an angry article of a column's length not only reflecting on the Sons of Veterans and Grand Army, but denied the right of any man or any society to teach their young people patriotism unless it came through ecclesiastical authority. The people of his parish are greatly aroused by this utterance, and state that it places them in a wrong light before the American public.

Confessed to Committing Murder.

JACKSON, Mich., May 2.—Dennis McCullough, accused of killing William Cunningham Saturday night by hitting him in the head with a bowlder, made a confession to-day admitting the act, but says he had no intention of killing the colored man. There were six men in the crowd and all agreed to say nothing. Two of them, now under arrest, will be indicted as accessory after the fact, and one or two others will be arrested.

Iowa Desperadoes Held for Trial.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, May 2.—The preliminary examination of Milo Doud, C. A. Dunn, and Grant Dailey, for the robbery of old Mr. Scott last Friday night, was held to-day. Justice Votaw bound them over in the sum of $2,500 each. People here are gratified that these desperadoes have at last been caught.

Crowds of Michigan Homesteaders.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 2.—Hundreds of homesteaders arrived in this city to-day to file their final papers to-morrow. The officers at the land office are prepared for a fearful rush. Many of the homesteaders will get into line before midnight to be among the first at the land office to-morrow.

COLUMBUS, Ind., May 2.—This section was visited by a heavy frost and light freeze last night. Considerable damage was done to fruit. Growing corn was badly nipped.

GALESBURG, Ill., May 2.—There was frost here this morning and fears prevail that the fruit crop is injured.

FROM THE OLD WORLD.

PARNELL GIVES HIS TESTIMONY BEFORE THE COMMISSION.

He Denies Having Communicated with Patrick Ford—The Samoan Conference.

LONDON, May 2.—The Parnell commission resumed its session Wednesday after the Easter recess. Mr. Parnell was put in the witness box, and gave his testimony in a clear, deliberate manner. He stated that he did not know that Delaney, who testified for the Times, was connected with any plan for obtaining amnesty for any of his associates. The witness stated that he had never heard of any attempt on Judge Lawson's life, and that he never was a member of any secret socity. Mr. Parnell said he had never communicated with nor met Patrick Ford, or any Fenian convicts or exiles in America. He first heard of the Clan-na-Gael in America. He had not left his interests in America in the hands of Ford and the Fenians, but in the hands of Mr. Dillon and his party. He did not remember the circumstance of his having an interview with Le Caron in 1881, although it might have occurred. He had never said he believed that only force would redeem Ireland but, on the contrary, he had no doubt that by constitutional parliamentary action the Irish leaders would achieve success. He had never suggested revolution nor discussed means by which revolution could be effected. He had never heard of proposals from any quarter for the removal—meaning the murder—of Cowper, Forster or others and did not know of the existence of any Invincible conspiracy until after the arrest in 1883. When he was liberated from Kilmainham jail on parole, that he might attend the funeral of his nephew in Paris, he met there Justin McCarthy, Quinn and Byrne. He did not believe that Egan had supplied the Invincibles with money from the league fund.

The Samoan Conference.

BERLIN, May 2.—The Berliner Tageblatt states that at the Samoan conference yesterday Mr. Kasson, one of the American delegates, asked whether a secret treaty existed between England and Germany to partition between them the Tongoa and Samoa islands, and that in reply both Sir Edward Malet, the British Ambassador, and Prince Bismarck categorically denied that such a treaty existed.

Herron Richter and Rickert have indignantly protested against the summary dismissal of the Landtag like a troop of soldiers.

Malietoa, the deposed King of Samoa, has apologized, and Emperor William has decided that the ex-King may be liberated.

Cable Flashes.

London—In the House of Commons last evening a motion of Samuel Smith (Liberal) censuring the government for fostering spirit drink in India was carried by a vote of 113 to 106.

Vienna—The Pope has sent a dispatch bestowing his blessing upon the Catholic congress here. In his message the Pope says he is greatly consoled by the protests of the congress against the present situation of the Vatican.

London—The Duke of Edinburgh, commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean station, who returned to England in consequence of prostration by fever, is making favorable progress toward recovery.

LATIMER ON THE STAND.

The Alleged Jackson Murderer Tells His Story.

JACKSON, Mich., May 2.—Lawyer Barkworth opened the case for the defense in the Latimer trial Wednesday and Irving was put on the witness-stand. He denied having ever had a revolver and denied that he told the district drug clerk that he had hurt his thumb on a ferry-boat in Detroit river. He told the story of his trip to Detroit and his return to Jackson at midnight, and his early ride back to Detroit in a very smooth, convincing way. He said he went to Detroit principally to meet a fast woman and pay some debts. She was to meet him at the Detroit depot. She failed to do so and he boarded the train west, thinking to meet her at West Detroit. He kept on the alert till he reached Ann Arbor, when he concluded to come back to Jackson and get an express order and return to Detroit and pay a debt. Two girls from a Detroit house of ill-repute, Miss Pink and Miss Huntington, were sworn by the defense, but the cross-examination showed the weakness of their testimony. In regard to the blood on his clothing Latimer said it came from his thumb and right foot, which often bled. He said he was dazed when he was brought home and cannot remember any interview with the prosecuting attorney. Latimer will be cross-questioned to-morrow.

The "Q"s New Arrangement.

GALESBURG, Ill., May 2.—The order consolidating the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy runs from Ottumwa to Burlington and from Burlington here into one run, with Galesburg as headquarters, has gone into effect. Superintendent J. J. Besler and other officials have decided to transfer immediately seventeen locomotives and as many engine and train crews from Burlington here. As a result of a recent demand by the company for 100 houses for the transferred employes, new houses are being built in every part of the city. Reports of extensive additions to the company's shops and of the ultimate transfer of shop employes from Aurora here prevail.

Found Floating in the Ohio.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 2.—The body of the boy Frank Stickman, of this city, who has been missing from his home for about a week, was found floating in the Ohio river at West Franklin, about twenty miles below this point. He must have fallen into the river here and floated down. His body had been buried at West Franklin, and subsequently dug up and shipped to his parents here. He was about 15 years old.

"Lumpy-Jawed Cattle from the West.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2.—A Lake Shore car containing twenty head of uninspected cattle from the West was switched last night at the Jacob Dold Packing Company's works. It was claimed that the cattle were "lumpy-jawed," and the health authorities to-day condemned them and they were turned over to the fertilizing works.

Dock Laborers' Strike.

DULUTH, Minn., May 2.—The coal dock laborers' strike has become general all around the bay and no work is being done. A number of special policemen are guarding the different coal docks. The men want 50 cents an hour and the companies will pay but 40 cents. The men can not possibly win.

To Dislodge the Enemy

When it takes the form of disease of kidneys or bladder, is a task well nigh impossible of accomplishment. Renal and vesical maladies are more obstinate than any others. Counteract, therefore, the earliest indications of inactivity of the many organs with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which possesses, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diuretic. The degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond the bounds of safety. It invigorates always, never irritates. Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, are diseases successfully combatted in their incipiency with this benign medical stimulant and tonic. Besides reinforcing and regulating the kidneys and bladder, the Bitters is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspepsia.

WOMEN WITH PALE COLORLESS FACES who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills, which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion.

Beecham's Pills act like magic on a weak stomach.

"THE SEVEN BOODLERS."

The Release of Capt. McClaughrey from the Joliet Penitentiary.

The release of "Farmer" McClaughrey, one of the Chicago "boodlers," from the Joliet penitentiary, was made an occasion for rejoicing among the old man's neighbors rather out of the usual line of welcomes. Not often does a freed prisoner have bonfires built in his honor, and the people from miles around gather to celebrate his home-coming. But most of Capt. McClaughrey's neighbors, despite the convicting evidence, believed the old farmer innocent of any wrong intent and hence their joy over his release.

Capt. McClaughrey is out from confinement several months before his companions in trial for the reason that a few days after his conviction in the celebrated "omnibus boodle" case Mr. McClaughrey asked to be taken to the penitentiary to serve his time—two years. He was 66 years old and he wanted to get rid of trouble as soon as possible. Before the customary motions for new trials were made or any steps had been taken for an appeal to the Supreme court Mr. McClaughrey entered on his term. Good conduct reduced it three months and Gov. Fifer the fourth month. When the doors of the penitentiary closed behind him it was thought he would never issue from them a live man. He had been accustomed to out-door life and the confinement, it was thought, would kill him. Luckily the warden was able to give him the work to which he had been accustomed. He was placed in charge of the farm and no man has ever kept it in such excellent condition.

On the prison stock farm his greatest pride was a drove of big fat steers which he fed and petted; the largest one weighed nearly two thousand pounds, while the smallest would weigh probably twelve hundred. One day shortly before the other "boodlers" came to the penitentiary and while they were still in jail a strolling amateur photographer with his camera happened along the road near the prison taking snap shots at the various objects that excited his curiosity about the big prison. Farmer McLaughrey espied the knight of the camera, and walking over to the fence hailed the fellow and asked to have his picture taken. The artist at once consented. The "farmer" led him around behind the big red barn and designated a spot where he could get his instrument in position while he was getting ready to be "took."

"Did you ever hear tell of the 'seven boodlers'?" asked McClaughrey of the artist. The man said he never had.

"Well, you just wait here a few minutes and I'll interduce ye, and ye can take our picters."

McClaughrey rushed into the barn where his pet steers were tied in stalls. He released them, and holding to the ropes which were fasted about their heads he led them into the cow yard and switched them around until he had them facing the man and his camera, when he announced that he was ready for the ordeal.

"But I thought you said you wanted a picture of seven boodlers," said the artist.

"Well, ain't we all here? That's 'Big Dan' on the right; next to him is 'Handsome Harry'; that sleek-looking fat feller in the middle is Mike Leyden; that onery little black cuss with the crooked horn is 'Van,' and them two sheepish-looking white fellers there who are so quietly chewing their cuds are Ochs and Wasserman.

"Yes, but that only makes six," said the artist.

"Will, I guess I'll have to kinder fill in to complete the picter. You can call me 'the farmer.' All ready now—steady, there, Dan; hold up your head, Van; let her go!"

RELIC OF OTHER DAYS.

Interesting relics of the great Chicago fire of 1871 occasionally come to light after having been lost or forgotten for several years. One of the latest as well as most curious is the recent discovery of a pass-key to all the rooms of the old Palmer house. The key was in use daily by one of the trusted employes of the house previous to the fire. When the ruins were cleared away the key was found among the debris by Michael Quinlan, in whose possession it had been before the house was destroyed. A curious discovery in connection with the reappearance of the long-lost key is the fact that it will now open the rooms of the new hotel, the same style of lock still being in use at that hostelry. The old key is very rusty and covered with molten iron, but, homely as it is, it will always be highly prized by its owner as a reminder of those exciting hours when life and property hung in the balance.

THE CRUSADERS OF TO-DAY

THE EXPLORERS OF THE DARK CONTINENT.

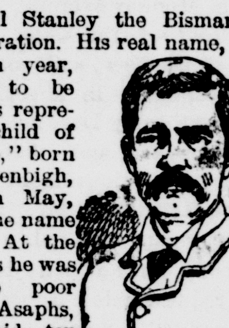
LIVINGSTONE, Cameron, Stanley, Emin Pasha (Dr. Schnitzer), Lieut. Wissmann, Lavagierie—these are the Tancreds, St. Louis, De Bouillons, lion-hearted Richards, and Barbarassas of these later times. Their lives read like romances. The black veil so long hung over the secrets of the dark continent is rent in twain. The Nile from Alexandria to the sources issuing from sands and springs, far in the interior uplands, has been explored. Livingstone dead, the brave Stanley takes his place—there is no intermission; Stanley lost, volunteers are ready to set out in search. The son of a republic, child of poor parents, has become the friend of Emperors and associate of Kings. Actuated by Columbo's spirit he will open up Africa to Christian civilization; bold, daring, energetic, his life has been a success. His title to everlasting gratitude is assured.

Stanley.

Germans call Stanley the Bismarck of African exploration. His real name, birthday, or birth year, are nowhere to be found. He is represented as a "child of chance or love," born at or near Denbigh, in Wales, in May, 1840, under the name of Rowland. At the age of 3 years he was put into the poor house at St. Asaphs, where he staid ten years. His first intentions were to follow literature, but he gave it up to follow the sea. As cabin boy he landed one day in New Orleans and found a job in the store of a merchant named Stanley, by whom he was afterward adopted and whose surname he took. When the war broke out he was compelled to serve in the Southern army; his adopted father had died in the meantime, suddenly, leaving no testament. A short time after the lad was taken prisoner and put into active service on board the Ticonderoga, where he worked up to be ensign. In 1865, after Appomattox, Stanley traveled as a newspaper reporter through Turkey and Asia Minor. As such he worked for the New York Herald during 1868 down in Abysinia; 1869 found him watching war in Spain. He knew no Spanish, except two or three words, less French than Ben Jonson gave Shakspere of Greek, and no Arabic. Nevertheless he undertook to write a history of Egypt. Ignorant of Greek, he had already written a history of Greece, much read in America. His bold and successful undertaking to find the great Scotch explorer, Dr. David Livingstone, won him fame and the world's gratitude. (In this undertaking he was materially assissed by Egypt's Khedive, Ismael Pasha, and financially by New York's enterprising editor, James Gordon Bennett.) His fame culminated in his crossing the dark continent by way of the Congo. Livingstone's claim that the Nile, running direct north, emptying into the Mediterranean at Alexandria and Port Said, and the Congo, running west and emptying into the Atlantic were fed by the same sources, got their supplies from the same lakes and water-sheds—those in and about Lualaba and adjacent country—and made almost certain by Capt. Cameron, was confirmed by Stanley. This journey was one requiring the exercise of heroic virtue and great patience; its complete success gave Stanley still greater renown; his fame began now to eclipse that of all contemporary explorers. Henceforth the veil was forever removed from the secrets of Africa.



HENRY MORETON STANLEY.

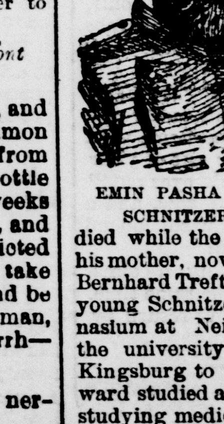
Cardinal Lavagierie.

St. Bernard, the monk of Clairvaux, away back in the middle ages, worked no mightier influence with his golden tongue than does Cardinal Lavagierie. Wherever he goes, in all lands—Catholic Belgium, infidel France and Italy, Protestant Germany—the William Lloyd Garrison, or, perhaps, better said, energetic Wendell Phillips of Europe, the Cardinal Archbishop of Tunis and Algiers, draws multitudes of hearers and millions of money to aid in putting down the inflamous traffic in human flesh that has so long been plied among the ignorant masses of Africa. Lavagierie's life shows what purpose, united with energy, can accomplish. Born in Bayonne, in France, in 1825, he studied theology and rose to be professor at the famous Sorbonne, in Paris. Under Napoleon he played an important part in the difficult task of State education; in '67 he was persona grata, a favored person to the Roman pontiff. By the latter he was appointed to his present see as archbishop, although the see or archbishopric was only such in name. The new appointee displayed an energy that soon astonished not only Rome, but France and all Europe. So energetic were his movements and measures that McMahon's military government in Algiers got mixed up in conflict with the bishop. Into the very heart of the dark continent he sent trained missionaries to preach the gospel, the arts and sciences, and civilization to bewildered savages. His success reads like a romance. Anxious to supplement the work of such men as Livingstone, Cameron, Stanley, and others, he came to Europe to preach a new crusade against slavery and trade in human flesh. To this end he was commissioned by Pope Leo and presented by him with 300,000 francs. Paris, Brussels, Rome, Berlin, Cologne—all the large and important capitals and cities of Europe—have hung spell-bound to an eloquence Demosthenic in its ardor and terrific in its earnestness of denunciation. All Europe is behind him; his movement knows no difference of religious creed. Volunteers to the number of 000 are waiting for spring to set out, as did once the crusaders, for a laudable object—the rescue of men and women from bondage more terrible than death. Lavagierie's place in history will be beside Lincoln and Garrison, Phillips and John Brown.

CARDINAL LAVAGIERIE.

Emin Pasha (Dr. Schnitzer).

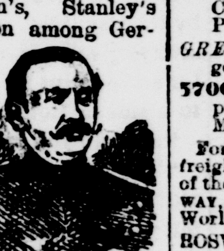
Strange to say, this man's early life and birth is shrouded with as much obscurity as Stanley's. His home, birthplace, date of birth and real name are unknown. He has been called Dr. Schnitzer, and is reported by some to have first seen the light in Prussia, by others in Austrian Silesia, about the year 1838 or 1840. It has lately been assured that he was born March 28, 1840, at Oppeln, Prussian Silesia; that his father, a merchant, died while the lad was quite young; that his mother, now living, married again, a Bernhard Trefty, a kind of bank official; that young Schnitzer graduated from the gymnasium at Neisse, and went afterward to the university at Breslau, Berlin, and Kingsburg to study medicine. He afterward studied at Vienna and Paris. Besides studying medicine he gave much time to natural science, ornithology especially. After receiving honors in his own country he wandered eastward to Constantinople, Egypt and Arabia. He was a constant companion of Ismael Pasha in his journey to Trebizund, Ezeroum, Constantinople, and Janina in Egypt, where Ismael died. A conscientious student and thoroughly drilled man, he learned French, Italian, English, several Slavic idioms, as well as Turkish, Arabic, and Persian. His long stay among eastern people had so completly changed his manners and personal appearance that no one would suspect his western origin. In '76 he took service with Egypt, and because of his perfect knowledge of Arabic, Gordon took special interest in him. He remained with Gordon all through those terrible and eventful days that preceded that great leader's unfortunate end. He was appointed Governor of the Egyptian equatorial province with the title of Bey. His services during the succeeding years were of a collosal character, and worthy of rank by the side of state achievements in Europe or America.



EMIN PASHA (DR. SCHNITZER.)

Lieutenant Wissmann.

Livingstone's, Cameron's, Stanley's fame has excited emulation among Germans, upon none more than Lieut. Wissmann, who leaves Berlin with powers of attorney in his pocket to represent Kaizer and Kanzler in the new German colonies in east Africa. Wissmann was born at Frankfurt-on-the-Oder in 1853. He got a German education similar to that enjoyed by most Germans in the middle or upper classes. Very early he showed zeal in pursuit of the exact sciences, especially natural ones. An acquaintance with Dr. Pogge ripened into a close friendship which resulted in Wissmann joining the African society in whose service he afterward set out with the doctor for Africa. Courage and fearlessness are Wissmann's leading characteristics, the use of which he often found applicable in his new calling. Twice he has crossed Africa from ocean to ocean. He has shown himself to be made of the right stuff, and to be one of the best organizers of African expeditions in the world. To him, as much, perhaps, as any one man, is due the recent encouragement given to German schemes of colonization. All over the empire, in little towns, and even villages, societies have been organized looking to the encouragement of any and all schemes that will place at the vaterland's disposal portions of the rich territory in other parts of the world. The Caroline island grab, the recent move in Samoa, the settlements at Cameroon, the establishment of East Indian lines of steamships from Hamburg and Bremen, the subsidies, the effort to open German-Chinese-Japanese banks, to direct the streams of emigration to South America, were only parts of one great purpose dominant in German minds, if not politics. The riches once enjoyed by Spain, Portugal, the Italian republics, now by Holland, the Netherlands, and England, came and comes, for the most part, from successful commerce with foreign parts. The empire is wearing out; through its center from the Bavarian Alps, or Wurtemburg hills, out into the sea beyond Silesia run vast tracts of almost barren sand wastes that devour dungs and fertilizers. The art of having small families is unknown; ten children is not a small average in many sections; foreign parts must be found, even at the risk of new, even dangerous, policies. Colonization has become and is becoming day by day a more and more imperative necessity. What a day or week may bring forth in the complications and varied interests struggling for a foothold in the dark continent no man can say; great factors in the same, however, the greatest, perhaps are Stanley, Lavagierie, Dr. Schnitzer (Emin Bey), and Lieut. Wissmann, who sets out with powers of attorney from an Emperor and imperial chancellor. What are we doing? Stanley is working for Europe.



LIEUT. WISSMANN.

CLEAR OFF THE BARANCLES.

Sensible Suggestions and Practical Advice to Business Men.

The following, from the American Artisan, to business men is worthy of the consideration of a good many manufacturers and merchants who are complaining of the stagnation of trade in their respective lines:

"Whatever your business, whether mercantile or manufacturing, if you are not progressing, you are at a standstill or receding. This should not be in these times of competition and hustle. Either you are in the rut of old fogyism, in the wrong line or position, or you are indifferent to business success. Possibly, like an old ship, you have attracted barnacles by inactivity, or your energy has become stagnated like the inactive pool, or keener and more go-ahead rivals have depressed you, and, thus shorn of your old-time powers, you have contracted the not-up-with-the-times fever and are going to the wall. Now, whatever is the matter, you should either stop business or overhaul the shid, for, as a writer aptly says: "Old ships lying at anchor may have the appearance of soundness and the outward evidence of strength, usefulness, and sea-geing qualities, but when carefully examined for a sea voyage are often found to be covered with barnacles and to be affected with dry rot. When such a vessel, no matter what good it has done or what use it has been in the traffic and carrying trade, is condemned, it is at once replaced by a new or more modern one that is in perfect order and fully seaworthy. What is true of vessels is often true of men also, and especially of merchants in trade who have been anchored too long in old-time ways and methods of doing business, and, consequently, do not keep up with the progress and spirit of the age."

A STATE TAX THIS YEAR.

Decrease in Earnings Make a Direct Tax Necessary.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 2.—There has been no State tax levied in Wisconsin since 1883, the income derived from the tax on railroads, together with a few other sources of revenue, being enough to defray all expenses. This year it will be different, and it is now thought that there is no way by which a direct tax on the different counties can be avoided. The principal reason for this state affairs grows out of the shrinkage in the earnings of the railroads in this State. The State has been receiving 4 per cent of the gross earnings of the railroads, and it will continue to get it. But the gross earnings of the railroads are growing beautifully less at a very rapid rate indeed, and as a result the "rake-off" taken by the State will also be considerably less than heretofore. In addition to this the Legislature, while spasmodically economical, drifted along in a blind sort of a way and appropriated a great deal more money than one-eighth of the members had any idea was the case. The decrease has been a marked one and the honest grangers and political demagogues who have been howling about the tremendous profits made by these common carriers will now have an opportunity to study the railroad problem from another standpoint.

Shot In Her Lover's Office.

PEORIA, Ill., May 2.—Miss Jessie Benning was fatally shot Wednesday. She was in the office of William Scott, a real estate agent. They were in the rear room when the young lady picked up a revolver which was supposed to have only empty shells. She snapped it several times and then playfully turned it toward herself with the remark: "I wonder if I can kill myself." There happened to be one loaded shell in the revolver and this exploded, the bullet entering her head. Miss Benning was 18 years of age and Mr. Scott was a few years her senior. They were to be married, and he is almost heart-broken over the affair.

An Octogenarian Weds His Eighth Wife.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., May 2.—A wedding of more than ordinary interest was performed here to-day by Squire France. The groom, Aurelia Payne, is just 80, while the bride, Miss Alice Coleman, is scarcely 18 years of age. Mr. Payne has an enviable record in the matrimonial line. He has been married eight times, has buried six wives, and was divorced from the seventh.

TO MONTANA, OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

If you are going west bear in mind the following facts: The Northern Pacific Railroad owns and operates 987 miles, or 57 per cent. of the entire railroad mileage of Montana; spans the territory with its main lines from east to west; is the short line to Helena; the only Pullman and dining car line to Butte, and is the only line that reaches Miles City, Billings, Bozeman, Missoula, the Yellowstone National Park and, in fact, nine-tenths of the cities and points of interest in the territory.

The Northern Pacific owns and operates 621 miles or 56 per cent of the railroad mileage of Washington, its main line extending from the Idaho line via Spokane Falls, Cheney, Sprague Yakima and Ellensburg, through the center of the territory to Tacoma and Seattle, and from Tacom to Portland. No other transcontinental through rail line reaches any portion of Washington Territory. Ten days stop over privileges are given on Northern Pacific second class tickets at Spokane Falls and all points west, thus affording intending settlers an excellent opportunity to see the entire territory without incurring the expense of paying local fares from point to point.

The Northern Pacific is the shortest route from St. Paul to Tacoma by 207 miles; to Seattle by 177 miles, and to Portland by 324 miles—time correspondingly shorter, varying from one to two days, according to destination. No other line from St. Paul or Minneapolis runs through passenger cars of any kind into Idaho, Oregon or Washington.

In addition to being the only rail line to Spokane Falls, Tacoma and Seattle, the Northern Pacific reaches all the principal points in Northern Minnesota and Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Bear in mind that the Northern Pacific and Shasta line is the scenic route to all points in California.

Send for illustrated pamphlets, maps, and books giving you valuable information in reference to the country traversed by this great line from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Ashland to Portland, Oregon, and Tacoma and Seattle, Washington, Territory, and enclose stamps for the new 1889 Rand McNally County map of Washington Territory, printed in colors. BRIEFLETS.

—See notice of Oberramagan in entertainment column.

—Charles Heimstreet, son of E. B. Heimstreet, has taken a position with a prominent drug firm in Racine.

—The children of the public schools will be admitted to Mr. Addy's museum Friday afternoon for five cents each.

—Hon. Hamilton Richardson, who has been spending several months in California, returned home yesterday.

—Janesville Chapter No. 5, Royal Arch Masons, assemble in regular semi-monthly convocation this evening in Masonic hall.

—Let all friends of the Woman's Industrial Exchange help on the good work by going to see Mr. Kennan's views of the famous Passion Play. Taken from the original.

—K. K. Kennan, who lectures in Court Street church Friday evening, is a brother of the author of "Siberian Papers" which has so delighted readers of the Century of late.

—The May party of the Terpsichorean club will be given on Tuesday of next week. Smith & Anderson's orchestra will furnish music. On Thursday, May 10th, the same orchestra will play for the party at LaPrairie Grange.

—LaCrosse had a hundred thousand dollar fire last evening, and help was summoned from Winona and Sparta. The fire originated in a large flouring mill, and communicated to the lumber district destroying udwards of 35,000,000 feet of lumber besides other property.

—Addy's museum was crowded with ladies and gentlemen yesterday. All speak in the highest praise of the many wonders to be seen, also the taste shown by Mr. Addy in arranging his very large collection. Those who have not visited the museum should do so, it will repay any one.

—F. P. Stannard has closed his Corn Exchange gun shop and removed to Milwaukee. He has been employed at a liberal salary to superintend the large gun shop of A. W. Freeze & Co. in that city. Janesville sporting men will regret the removal, but will join in wishing him the best of fortune.

—Messrs. Elmore and Graves, of the State Board of Charities and Reform, in company with Supervisor Fenner Kimball and County Clerk W. F. Williams, visited the county asylum at Johnstown yesterday. The members of the state board expressed themselves as well pleased with the institution and its management.

—There was a large number of people at the fine art exhibit given last evening by the Young People's Working Society of the First M. E. church, at the residence of Mr. E. C. Roof, 160 Lincoln St., fourth ward. Over a hundred specimens of fine art were carefully arranged and produced much mirth and entertainment for the throng of visitors. The entertainment was a grand success to all.

—According to the compromise agreed upon yesterday, the Lackner ash-heap case will cost Edgerton two hundred dollars. It will be remembered that Mr. Lackner sued for damages on account of his being thrown from a wagon on one of the Edgerton streets. The jury found that the accident was due to an ash-heap left in the way of traffic, and fixed the liability of the city at five hundred dollars.

—"The article published in the Recorder of this morning, charging that some of the firemen knew that an alarm would be sent in from box 32 on Tuesday night, and that the horses were hitched ready for the run, etc., is a lie fully three feet long. This will be backed up by every man in the department, no matter how creditably informed the Recorder may be." Thus spoke one of the prominent members of the fire department to a Gazette reporter this morning.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Green, at the corner of Bluff and Terrace street, first ward, was the scene of a very pleasant gathering last evening, the occasion being the birth day anniversary of Mrs. Green. Some of the neighbors and friends planned a surprise party and when Mr. Green came in from the evening train, he found his house filled, and his wife crowned with a wreath of flowers representing the May queen. The evening was very enjoyable, and will be long remembered by the participants. Mr. Green returned to Chicago this morning.

—Ald. McLean has had made a key box for the fire alarm telegraph. The box is of tin six inches square and three inches deep. It is intended to ask the council to fasten a box beneath each alarm box. In it the key will be hung and a glass cover locked over it. In case of fire the glass will be broken the key removed and an alarm turned in. The glass can be easily replaced but can only be removed by breaking. Whether middle-aged men in search of "fun" would find the glass any hindrance, however, would still be an open question.

—We concluded that it was a source of danger and expense to leave the keys in the fire alarm boxes. Exuberant youth has been tempted too many times in this city, and it is time to call a halt. —Recorder

The sentimenet expressed in the foregoing paragraph will surprise the average law abiding citizen. If the sentence means anything, it means endorsement of law breaking, and a total lack of appreciation. The city suffers loss and every citizen in it, because of the reckless dare devil spirit that makes it necessary to remove the fire alarm keys. The press of the city can hardly afford to make light of so serious a matter.

A TRIFLING REQUEST.

OBITUARY.

MICHAEL DOLAN.

Mr. Michael Dolan, an old resident of this city, and for the past 28 years an engineer in the employ of the Northwestern railway, died this morning at his home, corner of Wall and Washington streets, first ward, of rheumatism of the heart.

Deceased was 57 years of age, and had resided in Janesville for the past thirty-three years. He had been in poor health for some time. His pleasant and agreeable disposition had gained for him the good will and friendship of all who knew him. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his death.

His funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church on Saturday morning at nine o'clock, and the interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC.

MRS. J. W. ST. JOHN ENTERTAINS THE MUSICAL SOCIETY.

That the Janesville musical society will reorganize next fall doubled in number, and full of enthusiasm is certain. With the addition of thirty young men from Beloit college, there will come many new members from this city. So large a male chorus has never before been secured and its organization will make possible the presentation of the oratorio of "Elijah." All this has been practically decided upon, but the decision was not reached at the home of Mrs. J. W. St. John last evening. The society met with Mrs. St. John supposedly for the purpose of arranging for the next fall's work but sentiment was so unanimous that little work remained to be done. The evening, which was devoted to social reunion, proved one of the pleasantest of the series. There were, during the evening, songs by Mrs. St. John, Mrs. C. B. Conrad, Miss Minnie Nowlan, Miss Mamie Jones, and Messrs. Stouffer, Paris and Celling. Refreshments were served consisting of ice cream and cake.

THEY MET WITH ACCIDENTS.

MRS. CHRISTEEN DAY, AGED 83 YEARS BADLY HURT—HE LOST HIS FINGER.

Last night about ten o'clock a painful accident befell Mrs. Christeen Day at her home 215 North Bluff street. At that time Mrs. Day was in the act of getting out of bed, when she fell to the floor in such a manner as to break her leg at the hip. Her daughter thinking nothing very serious had happened, assisted the old lady back to bed, administering such remedies as she had at hand to relieve pain. This morning her condition was such that a surgeon was summoned, who found her leg broken. Mrs. Day has just celebrated her 83d birthday anniversary, and it is feared this accident, which proves more serious than at first indicated, will prove too severe for the infimities of her advanced age. Mrs. Day was resting very comfortably at noon to day.

Michael Holleran, a boy employ ed at the Thoroughgood & Co's. box factory, let his hand slip too near the re-saw this morning and lost a little finger. The accident happened about half past seven.

WAS NOT EASILY BLUFFED.

A JANESVILLE PASTOR USES THE LAW TO COLLECT A BURIAL FEE.

"Janesville is about the first town in the state," said a lawyer this morning, "where a minister had backbone enough to insist upon pay for attending a funeral even when fifteen miles out of town. This time it was fully fifteen miles and it wasn't a very pleasant day either. The minister was busy and had hard work to get away; and as the person buried was a total stranger to him and had never been in his church he asked for a fee of ten dollars. It was refused, blandly but with considerable surprise shown that such a request should be made. The minister promptly put the case in the hands of a lawyer here in town and now the fee has been paid."

A FORTY-FOOT HEADER.

MRS. MURRAY'S FEARFUL PLUNGE INTO A DEEP WELL.

Mrs. John Murray, of Paris, Kenosha county, had a miraculous escape from death yesterday. While drawing a pail of water from an open well, she lost her balance and fell through the opening, plunging headlong to the bottom of the well, a distance of forty feet. Mr. Murray witnessed the accident, and summoning assistance, hurried to his wife's rescue. Mrs. Murray was drawn to the surface, when an examination showed that she was uninjured save for a few slight bruises. She will be fully recovered in a day or two.

ARE LOOKING FOR GRAVEL.

NORTHWESTERN SURVEYORS BEGUN WORK IN THIS CITY.

A party of Chicago & Northwestern surveyors were at work in this city to day determining the lines of the company's property. One survey was along the line near the Monterey bridge and was to determine the extent of the company's interests in the gravel beds. It is said that gravel belonging to the road has been taken by other parties.

Another survey was made this morning to fix the lines of property lying in the triangle between Milwaukee street and Academy street, and the track. In this case the question to be settled is that of the ownership of property where the Blair & Gowdey side track is laid.

THEIR TASK NOT AN EASY ONE.

"Before very long," said an old railroad employe to a reporter at the C. M. & St. P. depot this morning, "all trains on this division of the St. Paul will be run on the block system. On roads where there are many trains it works the best of anything ever tried."

"How will that affect the train dispatcher?"

It won't affect him much of any. And by the way, why is it that newspapers always give train dispatchers the blame for an accident no matter whether he is to blame or not?"

"How do you make that out?"

"Why, any railroad man that knows a monkey wrench from a stock freight will tell you that. Train dispatching is a good deal like a big game of solitaire with two decks of cards. Just imagine yourself sitting down to such a game to last eight hours at a sitting and you have it. It is all head work and is as difficult as playing a game of chess in four different towns at the the same time. The twenty-four hours are divided into three tricks of eight hours each. This is all any one man can stand at a time. A new dispatcher always starts in as "third trick" man, serving from mid-night to 8 in the morning. May be you have noticed that this is the time of day when most accidents occur, too, but it is not the dispatcher's fault. He never sleeps. He is too busy to sleep. He is in luck if he has time to get up and walk around his chair once or twice during the watch. But along toward morning is when trainmen sleep. Their hours are so irregular that you can't blame them. I have known crews to be out twenty-four and thirty-six hours at a stretch, and it is no wonder that they get sleepy.

"The first thing a dispatcher does when he sits down to work is to get his train sheet ready. This is nothing more nor less than a huge blank time-table of all the trains running in his division. But in addition to keeping the time of each train at every station he must know her number, the number of cars, the names of engineer and conductor, the number of the engine, and possess good knowledge of the capacity of that engine to do its work. These are essential. The names and numbers he puts on his sheet. His knowledge of the engine comes into play when he is giving his orders to that engine to run to a certain place."

"How many trains does he have under his control?"

"All the way from five to forty. You can see what a job it is when a dispatcher has, say, twenty trains to manage—ten going each way. Supposing one or two are behind a little. It is plain sailing until the two front trains meet. Then his work begins. These trains must all keep up their time, and pass each other at stated places. On his sheet he records nothing save the time the train arrives and leaves a certain point. All the rest must be done in his head. If any one train does not arrive at a given station when she is due, he will know it at once. He knows the complete time table of the road and every station by heart. He has to know it. The operators at the different stations don't take the trouble to go out and get the time of every train, either, unless he stirs them up. If one train gets a few minutes behind, then the whole system is thrown out of gear, and he has to provide some scheme whereby the delayed train may get along from station to station. The time of the other trains must not be interfered with. This is where he plays his game of solitaire for all there is in it.

"The double order system that we use now on the St. Paul has gone a great way toward cutting down the chance of accident. When an order is given to one train to run a certain distance and meet another train the order is duplicated to both trains. Then each knows just what the other is doing all the time. The only chance here for an error is for the operator, who receives the order at the station, to get the wrong name. To avoid that he must repeat his order to the dispatcher with the conductor's name signed to it, thus showing that the conductor knows what he is to do. The dispatcher O. K.'s it, and then the train leaves.

"When the block system is put into service, as it is already from Milwaukee to Brookfield Junction, the road will be all divided off into sections. No train can enter a section until the one ahead leaves it, and as soon as a train enters a block, danger signals ares wung out at each end. We have the signals here now but they are not used in that way. The boys will be glad when the change is made"

HE HAS SERVED LONGER THAN ANY OTHER INSPECTOR.

A Washington dispatch to the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin says: The state of Wisconsin is especially honored in the postoffice department. John D. King and D. H. Pulcifer are the oldest postoffice inspectors in the service, and they are good ones. Recently these Wisconsin men have been detailed for special duty as attaches of the office of postmaster-general, and they look after business under the immediate direction of the head of the department. Mr. King used to be the oldest inspector, in point of continuous service, but he was removed for republicanism, and was out for a couple of years. Pulcifer remained in the service during the entire "unpleasantness." Hence, Pulcifer is now the oldest inspector in point of uninterrupted service. They are bright, competent men. Pulcifer says: "The democratic administration didn't seem to see me. In fact, no one can see anyone who stands behind Philetus Sawyer. The old man stood in front o me, and Vilas couldn't see me. Hence, I was safe during the interregnum."

READING THE TESTIMONY.

A TWO HOURS SEIGE LAST EVENING AT THE COUNCIL CHAMBER.

An adjourned meeting of the common council was held last evening, the special business being the reading of the testimany in the water works investigation.

Ald. Norris stated that Mr. Stephen Grubb desired permission to remove the frame dwelling on his lot at the corner of West Milwaukee and North Jackson street to make room for a new brick business block, and on Ald. Norris' motion permission was granted.

City Clerk Bates then resumed the reading of the testimony, commencing at the point left at the former meeting, being the concluding portion of Chas. H. Eller's testimony, followed by that of John W. Mills, Assistant Engineer Geo. H. Osgood, Engineer G. W. Spickler, of the water works, C. W. Hodson, Wm. B. Stoddard, Thos, Jenkins, fireman at the pumping station, and Chief Engineer Henry Blunk. After reading for two hours, City Clerk Bates was relieved by City Attorney Doe in reading Chief Blunk's testimony, and when this was concluded an adjournment was taken, it being after ten o'clock, and the council thought the remainder of the testimony could be read at the regular meeting on Monday evening, being that of Supt. Croft, of the water company, and John C. Spencer, with some valuable points called out in a colloquy between City Attorney Doe, Mr. Clarke of the water company, and others.

Previous to the ajournment City Attorney Doe stated that Mr. Clarke, of the water company desired a copy of the testimony, but he had declined to grant the request unless directed to do so by the council. No action taken.

SECRETARY TIMME'S DILEMMA

THE PAYMENT OF THE STATE BUILDINGS CLAIMS IS QUESTIONED.

Secretary of State Timme is still wrestling with the problems which have arisen in the issuing of warrants for the payment of the Littlejohn claims. By the withdrawal from the position held on Friday, the whole matter was again taken under advisement, and just when it will be finally determined the secretary is now unable to say. The controlling question still is the contitutionality of the act, but, should the question be resolved in the affirmative, another one arises, namely, whether there are available funds for the payment of the claims. The appropriation is an extraordinary one, and the money to satisfy it must be taken from the general fund.

Should the state's funds be found insufficient to liquidate the Littlejohn claims, the Hilker and Bentley and Nowland claims will necessarily remain unpaid also.

[illegible] A COINCIDENCE.

[illegible] Glib Tongue and Fertile [illegible] Got a Detroiter Into.

A woman recently stood at the writing [illegible] corridor of the postoffice with [illegible] her hand and a postal card before [illegible] the Detroit Free Press. She was [illegible] deeply, when a man approached with a postal card in his hand, looked [illegible] for a pen, and finally said:

"Madam, are you going to use that pen the next give minutes?"

"Yes, sir, she replied. "I am just going to write to my husband."

"And I am just about to write to my wife. Curious coincidence, eh?"

"I don't know about that. My husband ran away, and I have just got his address and was wondering whether I should tell him to stay or ask him to come home."

"By George, madam, but how singular! My wife also skipped out, and I was wondering what to say to her. We are in the same boat. Shall we write: 'Come home, darling,' or, 'I never want to see your face again'? What a curious coincidence!"

"Yes, I think it is!" remarked a woman who came up behind him. "Trying to make a mash, are you? This is the way you hunt for work, is it? Come home with me, or I'll pull all the hair out of your head and scratch that woman's eyes out!"

He went humbly along in tow, and a newsboy who sat on the window-sill looked after the pair and soliloquized:

"That's what I call busting a coincidence and catching a liar at the same time. Better write for your darling to return by telegraph, ma'am."

HE TRIED TO SPANK HIS SON.

And the Operation Resulted In His Having to Pay the Court Four Dollars.

The Fire Alarm Cases Came Before the Municipal Court To-day.

The question of whether a father may chastise his own son came before Judge Patterson to-day. Last Sunday a nineteen-year-old fifth-ward youth became involved in a discussion with his father. The father finally reached forth to correct his son by the old-fashioned "laying on of hands". Eddie dodged, and made his escape. To-day he had his father arrested for assault, and a fine of one dollar, and costs of $2.91 were entered in the case.

Five of the fire alarm warrants were served to day. All the defendants plead-ed guilty at once.

Two warrants have not yet been served but are in Marshal Hogan's hands. Each of the defendants to-day was fined ten dollars, the costs in the five cases being seven dollars.

MUSICAL MELANGE.

Mrs. Bernard Beere, the great actress, has recently come out as a concert singer.

Negotiations have been concluded with Scharwenka for a series of concerts in the United States next season.

A new opera, "Gorinshka," by Anton Rubinstein, will be brought out at the Imperial opera of St. Petersburg during the present season.

It is probable that Edward Strauss, the famous Viennese conductor, the brother of the still more famous Johann, will be in New York in the summer of 1890.

Herr Hans von Bulow, the eccentric interpreter of Wagner and Beethoven, is to get $10,000, besides having his expenses paid, during his four weeks' tour of the country.

The violinists Joachim and Meyer have at last received a Stradivarius violin from their admirers. For Joachim's £1,000 was paid and for Meyer's £1,250, and neither is said to be really first-class.

Feb. 13, a new opera by Dvorak, entitled "The Jacobin," was produced for the first time at the National Bohemian theater of Prague, and was received with the greatest enthusiasm by the composer's countrymen.

There is still living in Northampton, Mass., an old musician known as Uncle James Hurlburt, whom Jenny Lind once drove twenty miles to hear. His favorite instrument is the violoncello, and he still preserves a gold coin which the songstress gave him as a mark of her appreciation for a solo which he played for her.

J. Travis Quigg seriously declares that in a "sassiety" musicale in New York city the pianist and violinist agreed to experiment on the musical understanding of their audience, so they wound up a Wagner number with the C chord on the piano and the note C sharp on the violin, causing a dissonance that would set one's teeth on edge. The people applauded and the hostess smiled and said, "How expressive!"

At one of the Bulow rehearsals the other day the great pianist made some diverting observations to the orchestra during the progress. Among other things he remarked, when they began the rehearsal of Wagner's "Tannhauser," that almost every phrase of this musical work was stolen and he could show where this phrase came from. And he added that he did not say this because Wagner had stolen his wife away from him, but because it was the truth.

A Washington comic opera duo, Johnson, librettist, and Shaw, composer, have a new work ready. The scene of the opera is laid on an island in the Zuyder Zee, and the time is to-day. The plot hinges on a legend which relates how a fiery-eyed genus returns to earth once a century and creates social disturbances. Every man he looks upon is prohibited from marrying, and every woman who comes under his eye will wed at once. A modern New Yorker with a single eye glass is mistaken for the genus, and many complications thus arise.

Still another name is to be added to the role of American singers who have gained success in Europe. Kate Percy Douglas, who is well remembered here, went to London about two years ago to pursue her studies under Mr. Shakespeare. London papers give flattering accounts of her successful debut with the Royal Orchestral society, of which the Duke of Edinborough is first violin. The critical press commend her voice which has gained in flexibility and compass, and acquired evenness of scale, greater breadth, and dramatic intensity and artistic finish.

WORSE THAN MARRIAGE.

Was sitting alone in his room:
His toes with the gout were aching
And his face was o'erspread with gloom.

No little ones' shout disturbed him,
From noises the house was free;
In fact, from the attic to cellar
'Twas quiet as quiet could be.

No medical aid was lacking:
The servants answered his ring,
Respectfully heard his orders,
And supplied him with everything.

But still there was something wanting,
Something he couldn't command,
The kindly words of compassion,
The touch of a gentle hand.

And he said, as his brow grew darker
And he rang for the hireling nurse,
"Well marriage may be a failure,
But this is a blamed sight worse."

A WONDERFUL INVENTION.

The Greatest Labor-Saving Machine of To-day is the Modern Typewriter.

During the past ten years, a great change has been accomplished in the office work of most business and professional men by the use of the Typewriter. Formerly it was necessary to employ skilled business men to attend to the correspondence of every business house, if, indeed, it was not necessary for the proprietors themselves to engage in this onerous task. But with the invention of the typewriter and the education of a large number of young women in its use and the practice of stenography, it is now the rare exception to find in large cities a business man writing a letter. He finds it much more profitable to devote his time to matters requiring executive ability, allowing one or two hours a day to his stenographer, to whom he dictates rapidly and with perfect ease the answers to all correspondents requiring his personal supervision. The result is that one man with this stenographic assistance, can accomplish as much as five could in the old way. Better than this, there is no wrist aching, cramping or shoulder stooping required. The work is in most cases considered a relief from the ordinary drudgery of business or office life, and is looked upon rather in the light of recreation.

In the smaller cities and towns the Typewriter has not yet taken its proper place among the labor-saving inventions of the day, but each month sees more of the machines in use and not one who has ever been relieved from the drudgery of letter writing will ever willingly go back to it again. In legal work the Typewriter is now almost universally used for all sorts of documents, especially in long reports of the big trials that go on from day to day. The old fashioned way of getting out reports was a severe strain on court reporters, who were compelled to revise and correct an immense amount of writing in a voluminous case. Now there are court stenographers who merely sit down and read over their notes to rapid typewriters. Several of these stenographers are able to dictate to two typewriters at once, and in this way they can accomplish twice as much as can the ordinary court reporter. The Judges, too, are very favorably impressed with the use of the Typewriter in the preparation of legal briefs, as it is so much less trying on the eyes and patience to read over a case than when written in the ordinary penmanship of a busy lawyer. And it is hinted that in more cases than one a decision has been rendered favorable to the side whose counsel employed a Typewriter where the other submitted its case in the "hen tracks" of an attorney. Be this as it may, there is no question but that the Court can get a clearer idea of the merits of a case by reading it from the Type written page than in having it presented in any other manner.

The history of the Typewriter is to well known to need repetition here, suffice it to say that the first machine invented by Milwaukeans embodied principles which have been found, after a dozen years of practical use, to be best adapted to the work required of a writing machine, and the result is the Remington Typewriter of to-day. Its compact key-board, that can be manipulated without looking at the machine, not only allows the operator who has to read her notes, to work continuously with her hands while perusing the stenographic page, but is also a "God send" to the blind. To show the popularity of the Typewriter it is only necessary to state that at least 55,000 of these machines are in daily use in the offices of this country, and every day sees this number largely added to.

That penman is very expert who can turn off 20 to 35 words of legible writing a minute, while with the Typewriter from 80 to 151 words per minute have been written, the latter number being the record made by Mr. Frank E. McGurrin at Detroit last January without error. It is interesting to compare the work done at this great exhibition of speed with ordinary penmanship, and for this purpose Messrs. Wycoff, Seamans & Benedict of 196 LaSalle St., Chicago, have prepared photographic copies of the matter written during this and other trials and will gladly furnish the same on application. Whether or not any improvements can yet be made by which written language can be transmitted from one person to another, it is certain that the progress in this line during the last 15 years, as exemplified in the present writing machine have been equal if not greater than in any other line of invention.

She Awoke too Soon.

"For forty long years have my good old wife and I travelled hand in hand adown life's thorny road" said old Deacon Guse at an apple-paring party the other evening, "and in all those years not one single harsh, hasty, unkind word has passed our lips when speaking to each other. Isn't that true, mother?"

"Mother" had quietly fallen asleep on the sofa by Mr. Gush's side, and as he laid his hand caressingly on her shoulder, she gave a little snort of defiance and said sharply.

"Get up yourself and build the fire, Sam Gush, I built it last and I'll see you in Guinea before I'll build it this morning, you—oh—oh—I—I—why, where am I? I guess I dropped off to sleep"

"And I guess you'd better have stayed asleep, Lizy Gush!" hissed Samuel into her ear as the crowd around the sofa made a rush for doors and dark corners where giggling and tittering could be indulged in freely.
